The Opportunity

Southfield School invites applicants for the position of Head of School. Established in 1934 as a progressive alternative to local schools, Southfield is celebrating its 85th anniversary this year. It has a proud history of academic excellence and diversity, a well-established liberal arts program, and a vision to “Develop a Lifelong Love of Learning” in every child. The school is accredited by the Independent Schools Association of the Southwest (ISAS) and is a member of the National Association of Independent Schools (NAIS).

A Southfield education is a priceless investment in a child’s future.

At Southfield, a talented and experienced faculty cultivates curiosity, character, and kindness. Its secure environment surrounds the whole child on a journey through a challenging curriculum that produces young scholars with self-confidence and integrity.

Southfield is regarded as a model of best practices in education and learning. The Shreveport community recently voted it the best private school and most loved private school in the region. Faculty members and staff are highly committed to the mission and vision of the school and use their creativity to inspire students to engage and excel in the classroom and in extracurricular activities.

As “The Face of Southfield,” the Head of School will represent the school and its mission to the Shreveport-Bossier community. He or she should be a skilled communicator, a strong advocate of the school, a forward thinker, a collaborator, and an experienced educator. The next Head of School will be committed to diversity and inclusion and have an appreciation for the unique environment and culture of Southfield and the Shreveport community.

Shreveport is a city of approximately 200,000 in a metropolitan area of 450,000. Located in northwest Louisiana, the city is situated three hours from Dallas, four hours from Houston, and five hours from New Orleans. Shreveport is a unique and diverse place with historic homes, wonderful access to outdoor recreation, cultural festivals and events, and popular dining and entertainment options, all of which make it an excellent community for families.

Southfield School is a nonsectarian, coeducational, day school serving 375 students age two through grade eight.
