Southern Teachers is assisting Hammond School with its search for a dynamic and innovative Director of Academic Support Services who demonstrates intellectual curiosity and is committed to the principles of teaching the whole child in a student-centered classroom. This person will be responsible for directing the academic support services for the Middle and Upper Schools, developing and implementing learning plans for students with learning differences, and supporting differentiated education in both divisions.

Candidates must hold degrees in special education, exceptional education, school psychology, or related fields. Candidates with advanced degrees are preferred. The Director must be supportive, organized, and able to communicate effectively with students, teachers, parents, and administrators. The ideal candidate will have experience in exceptional education and divergent learning in grades five through twelve.

Hammond seeks teachers who believe in differentiated and developmentally aligned models of teaching and learning to push students to their personal highest level of achievement. The school understands the importance of instructional design and is attuned to the social and emotional growth of adolescent students. All candidates must demonstrate the ability to incorporate a variety of instructional methods and strategies to address a variety of learning styles and possess a record of excelling in a collegial environment.

Hammond School offers a college preparatory curriculum that promotes the love of learning for a lifetime. The school embraces the Judeo-Christian tradition of moral and ethical values and respects all religious beliefs and traditions and seeks applicants of all races, religions, and nationalities. The mission of Hammond School is to instill in students a commitment to academic excellence and recognition of individual potential that will contribute to the development of their characters.
