stuarthallschool.org

Southern Teachers is assisting Stuart Hall as it seeks a Residence Life Coordinator who will live on campus and have overall responsibility for the well-being of boarding students—mind, body, heart, and spirit. Reporting to the Director of Community Life, the Coordinator serves as primary liaison between boarding students, parents, and on-campus faculty and staff.

The Coordinator establishes and maintains a residential culture in which students feel safe, healthy, and supported and learn to respect others, value differences, take responsibility for their actions, and exercise leadership. The Coordinator provides for the overall social and emotional support of middle and high school students in the boarding program, including students from different cultural, socio-economical and geographic backgrounds. He or she coordinates special programs and community service opportunities for boarding students; manages daily operations of the residence halls and school store; assists with boarding student orientation; and, in conjunction with the Director of Community Life, recruits, interviews, hires, trains, and supervises faculty residential staff and student leaders.

Candidates must have excellent interpersonal skills and the ability to engage effectively with all campus constituencies; experience and knowledge of best practices in independent education and school life; and superior communication skills, both oral and written.

Stuart Hall, a college-preparatory Episcopal school, provides outstanding education for area day students (prekindergarten through grade twelve) and boarding students from around the world in grades eight through twelve. Located on two campuses in Staunton and Verona, the school enjoys a rich history of over 170 years while maintaining a progressive, forward-thinking pedagogy. Current boarding enrollment is approximately 90 students.
