Head of Upper School
Tower Hill School
Wilmington, Delaware

Southern Teachers is assisting Tower Hill School as it seeks a dynamic, experienced educator to lead the Upper School division. The Head of Upper School will have the opportunity to lead a talented and dedicated faculty through an exciting chapter in the school's history with an experienced head of school and a refreshed administrative team. As the school is preparing to celebrate its centennial in 2019 and is currently finalizing a robust Strategic Plan, the Upper School Head will have a clear road map to enhance and build upon a strong service learning program, STEAM and interdisciplinary work, curricular innovation across all disciplines, and a commitment to ensure professional development at an even higher level for Tower Hill teachers.

The Upper School Head is responsible for day-to-day operations in grades nine through twelve and for overseeing the division's curriculum, budget, citizenship, attendance, advisor program, and growth so that the Upper School becomes a beacon for the rest of the school, with distinguishing program features that set it apart from other area schools in caliber and offerings. Along with the head of school, the US Head carries out the process of teacher supervision, evaluation, and professional development. He or she collaborates with two other division heads, class deans, the dean of students, and department chairs.

The Upper School Head must have the energy, experience, and determination to work collaboratively to create buy-in with faculty and students—to continue building a healthy, warm, friendly, diverse, academic, and extracurricular culture where each student is respected for who he/she is and in which rigor is truly enhanced by balance and wellbeing. The US Head must be able to relate to students while also being confident in hard decisions, often putting at odds the desire to be “liked” or popular with all students at all times. The US Head must also be able to lead amidst exciting curricular change, including the evolution of the Upper School schedule, ensuring more opportunities for experiential, innovative, and global teaching and learning.

Tower Hill School, enrolling students from age three through grade twelve, is dedicated to living its motto: Multa Bene Facta – Many Things Done Well. With a beautiful 44-acre campus in northwest Wilmington, Tower Hill has the reputation as one of the top academic schools in the region. Its unparalleled resources include excellent faculty, state-of-the-art facilities, and individualized learning support.
